PLANNED COURSE ADAPTATIONS/MODIFICATIONS
Introduction

The instructional adaptations that follow are provided as suggestions to be implemented with all students, particularly with those in need of special education services including the gifted. This listing is in no way intended to be exhaustive. Rather, it is reflective of some major considerations in the area of curriculum adaptations/modifications.

These instructional adaptations will work with any student, but are especially beneficial to those in need of learning support. Some may argue that these modifications are simply good teaching. Indeed, modifications of this type do represent good teaching. These principles of good teaching become instructional modifications whenever: (1) certain students in a particular class require such modifications above and beyond what is typically required by most students in that class and (2) without these modifications, these same students would not succeed.

PREFACE

Users and information seekers should familiarize themselves with the purpose and terminology of this Planned Course Curriculum Guide (PCCG). We suggest that you first read the following:

- PCCG PURPOSE AND INTENT
- PCCG DEFINITIONS

The PCCG specifies the unit lesson outcome, essential content, standards, activities, resources, and evaluation of student performance. This sector provides the means to initiate the learning activities to attain the program goal as identified in the course description and intent.

The standards and outcomes are minimal expectations; further embellishment of the course is discretionary with the instructor depending upon the capability of the students.

This PCCG is designed as an ACTIVE document capable of technological modification as required.

The instructional delivery of this curriculum is quality controlled through the lesson plan development of the teacher.

Lawrence J. Mussoline, Jr., Ph.D.
Superintendent of Schools

PLANNED COURSE CURRICULUM GUIDE (PCCG) PURPOSE AND INTENT

The Planned Course Curriculum Guide (PCCG) is a multi-purpose document:

- All staff, particularly new teachers, can understand instructional expectations through the WRITTEN curriculum
- A continuing district-wide instructional process and scope and sequence of subject matter are enhanced. The WRITTEN curriculum is delivered through the TAUGHT curriculum (instructional content and learning activities) and is evaluated through the TESTED curriculum (expected levels of student achievement - learning outcomes)
- Priority student-centered outcomes are identified and attained through suggested learning activities and content designed to help insure a balanced and comprehensive basic curriculum
- Essential content and course standards provide an efficient basis for selecting appropriate instructional materials and resources
- Staff development areas for curriculum improvement are provided
- The PCCG conforms with current Pennsylvania Department of Education curriculum regulations and serves the dual feature of providing both an administrative document and an instructional guide
- Content and subject format remain flexible and adaptable to modification - an "active" document
- Special Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE) legislation is identified
- Parents and students are provided with an overview of the instructional program and each course in particular

PLANNED COURSE CURRICULUM GUIDE (PCCG) DEFINITIONS

- Course Description and Intent: a brief overview of the course and program goals
- Instructional Time: frequency of class meetings and time/appropriate credit at the secondary level
- Special Notes: emphatic features or highlights and identification of Department of Education mandates found in the course
- Unit Lesson Outcome: describes the knowledge, skills, attitudes, student performance behaviors and areas of study that have been identified as appropriate to help the student attain the rigorous standards of a quality education
- Teaching-Learning Activities: suggested activities designed to help all students achieve the learning outcomes and standards
- Standards: statements establishing the minimal knowledge, skills, performance behaviors, and essential learning (content) a student must attain. A standard defines what students should know and be able to do
- Expected Levels of Achievement (Learning Outcomes): what students will be expected to do as a result of the application of teaching-learning activities and content
- Evaluation Criteria (Actual Level of Attainment): student performance level achieved and measured through specified evaluation criteria
